

Shivaar Kishoon

WIL SELF REFLECTION

ST10445705

Self evaluation:

Wil is a module that integrates academic learning with practical work experiences related to a student's field of study.

Wil also gives has given me or helped me with developing skills and working with other as a team and a team member. Also solving problem on hand, communication skills, which are often hard to teach.

Wil also gives and idea of what it would be like in a work environment. What I mean is in a work environment you work as a team, and in this module you learn how to split tasks and share insights with others in your team. You also learn how to communicate with other personalities, which makes able to talk other people with out being left out because you don't understand them. Also you able understand that not everyone is he same and that you need to take into consideration what other peoples life are like, yours could be tough there could be easy.

In a work environment you meet different people and you also get learn what your customers do, which could also help you network yourself with others, giving you new opportunities that you never had.

In conclusion wil gives you a good idea of what to expect in the real world, and how you should prepare your self , all the different possibilities or situations that could occur.

SKILLS LEARNT:

The skills I have learn vary as we learnt a lot on how to talk to people who don't understand you the way others do. But to take into account our groups were picked randomly making hard for us to have our friends or people we knew. This made us all nervous as we were worried that we could be put with people we don't like, but it was up to us fix that, meaning that we had to learn how to adapt to new people and there ways as we had no option. We needed to work as a team and split tasks up, this were I learnt we all have strong points and some of us are still coming to terms what they strong at or were to scared to say they will be able to take on a task. This meant that we had to adapt to a person of our age leading us or for some who felt maybe offended in a way, "bossed" around as they not use to being told to do thing by someone who is equal to them. This is where we learnt that it wasn't about ourselves but about our team, we need to work as a team.

I also developed a way to talk to other and discuss issues with out offending any one as some may take criticism in the wrong way. I learnt how to express my opinion with out feeling as if about say something wrong to hurt someone. I also was able to communicate properly with others and get my opinion across.

Working as a team and having deadlines to met and having to be at campus earlier than usual also taught me how work life could be and how things can change just like that.

ROLE IN THE TEAM:

My role in the team was not big but also important, we all were equal except the leader who had more on his plate. My team leader Shrikar and vice Kaydan, were good leaders who kept us on track and informed, a well respected set of gentlemen and we all respected their decisions and choices.

My role in the was to design the 6 month course page for the website, this was a small task that I had agreed to do, I did my task and got feedback from the whole team rather than just the leader and vice.

I also contributed with my opinions and choices and also helped with the 6 week courses design as a whole.

As a team as a whole we all worked hard and long hours and had meetings on a regular. We all got along and respected each other even if we were out of line, we realised if we were. We all agreed and shared our thoughts, nothing was done behind our backs, every time something may have been changed we were informed about it the same day. We all got along and never had any issues with each other, we all learnt something about each other which was good, and we learnt how to work as a team.

There were no issues or any conflict or disagreement that may have caused us to argue, we all were happy as a team we had no issues everyone's opinions mattered and if we didn't agree we found a solution.

Research, technology and the presentation of information:

I didn't have any research that I had to do but rather just solving errors in my code or modifying it to make it better.

Personal strengths (strong points) and weaknesses (areas to do better in):

Doing this project and doing the task I was told to do I had realised my strengths and weaknesses. I excelled doing my code for my web page and also helping my partner who's part of the web page is similar, I was also able to troubleshoot issues with my code and fix them, because I understand it.

My weak points were deadlines, I did meet them but it was cutting it close as I was just finishing things up last minute which was not good enough. I also saw that my time management was not good, my life is a lot different to the rest of the team.

I have been working on fixing my time management and all issues with deadlines, I have tried to do things quicker and weeks in advance so I don't get caught up with other work, it will take time but I am determined to get there.

Stakeholder relationship:

My relationship was mutual and we got along with any issues or arguments, I did as I was told and tried my best.

I do wish I had a better relationship as I could have received more advice and help instead of wasting time on trying to fix things myself.

Impact:

My impact can be described as not too big as I did contribute with my opinions but also I didn't do much as we all worked as a team and put our inputs together. I did however say things that some of us did not want to comment on as we thought it could be taken the wrong way, I forward and upfront with my opinions and not afraid to share it, creating transparency among the group, as we didn't know each other well enough to say what we felt, but by me being transparent it created an atmosphere where we all could say how we felt about something rather than saying it behind one another's back.

Conclusion:

Doing this module opened my eyes to something I knew from past experiences, I am used to working as a team, but at the level we did and the deadlines and how professional things had to be, it had opened me to what work life could be like and how to deal with different people and personalities. I had learnt a lot along this small journey definitely will recommend people to do it so they understand that the world does not revolve around them and their problems, and that there is a lot to learn if they want to work comfortably in a work environment.